

THE DECEPTION OF PRIDE

Robert Morris

1. Pride opens the doo	or to deception.
Daniel 6:8–9
disguise might enter t	atly alarmed at the mysterious handwriting on the wall and apprehending that someone in he palace with murderous intent, ordered his doorkeepers to behead anyone who attempted to sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain die who attempts to enter	t night, even though such person should claim to be the king himself. Belshazzar, overcome by the unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to the plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius ment forming part of a candelabrum, and with it, shattered his skull.
sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain die who attempts to enter	ce unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to d he plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius
sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain die who attempts to enter	ce unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to d he plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius
sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain die who attempts to enter	ce unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to d he plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius
sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain die who attempts to enter grasped a heavy orna	ce unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to d he plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius sickness, left the palac admit him. In vain did who attempts to enter grasped a heavy orna	ce unobserved during the night through a rear exit. On his return the doorkeepers refused to d he plead that he was the king. They said, "Has not the king ordered us to put to death anyone the palace, though he claims to be the king himself?" Suiting the action to the word, Darius

1 Kings 8:35–36
Psalm 55:17
1 Salm 35.17
2. Pride always brings regret.
Daniel 6:16; Daniel 6:18
3. Pride causes spiritual blindness.
Daniel 6:23–24; John 9:6–15; John 9:18–21; John 9:24–27; John 9:39–41
What is the Holy Spirit saying to me through this message?
Scripture is from the New Living Translation version and the New King James version of the Bible.